Eleftherios Venizelos started efforts to found a university in Thessaloniki in the “New Territories” as Northern Greece was called after the Wars of 1912

An initiative taken by the government of Alexandros Papanastasiou founded the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki in 1925.

The Aristotle University first opened its doors a year later, in 1926. Georgios Chatzidakis, was the first Head of the university followed by Christos Tsountas.

Special emphasis was placed on the development of the humanities. Thus, the Faculty of Philosophy was the first to open its doors in 1926.

At first, it was housed in “Villa Allatini”, which now hosts the Prefecture of Thessaloniki. In October 1927, the Faculty of Philosophy was transferred to the former Idadie, in Ethnikis Amynis. Today, it is the historic building of the university and houses only a part of the Faculty of Philosophy.

The School of History and Archaeology as part of the Faculty of Philosophy was founded in 1982, following a large scale restructuring of higher education in Greece.

Throughout its course, from 1926 to the present, the School boasts many important intellectuals and researchers in History and Archaeology, widely recognized.

Michail Laskaris, Christos Tsountas, Konstantinos Romaos, Stilpon Kyriakidis, Apostolos Vakalopoulos, Alki Kyriakidou-Nestoros, Nikolaos Platon, Georgios Bakalakis, Manolis Andronikos, are among those influential figures.

All of them adhered to the innovative spirit of the Aristotle University in their teaching. As a result, new subjects were introduced to the academic scene of Greece: Social Anthropology, the History of Art, Balkan and Slavic Studies, followed more recently by Theoretical Archaeology, Landscape Archaeology, Archaeometry, Bioarchaeological analysis, Public History and Archaeology and others. AUTH is one of the two Universities in Greece teaching Ottoman History since the late 1980s.

The university holds plans for introducing Jewish studies and Arab studies. In both subjects the School will have a central role.

The goals of the School

- To give to its students a strong basis in the discipline and its current standards by providing up-to-date knowledge on human culture and history from the earliest times to the contemporary era.
- The School further aims to offer opportunities for research in history and archaeology with an understanding of the challenges that confront society today.
- It promotes also theoretical and methodological innovation through the research projects carried out by its academic staff in co-operation with students

The aims

- The School aims to train archaeologists and historians who will play a leading role in the future as professionals.
- The school provides an informed academic program, with multidisciplinary perspectives and collaborations that extend beyond the confines of Greece.
- The School firmly believes that today we are studying the past to contribute also to the present.

Declining numbers of academic staff

Declining numbers of academic staff: Projection to 2020

Enrolled students

Graduates

In the years 2008-13 there were 263 graduates less than those enrolled during the same period. This is almost an extra year load of students

Administrative staff

- Most of them hold a PhD in Archaeology, History of Art or History
- There are no technicians or laboratory assistants
- There is only one educated librarian
- After a surge in 2009, their numbers are now declining rapidly due to the “availability” policies of the Ministry of Education
